Truss says sorry for going 'too far and too fast'

London: UK Prime Minister Liz Truss apologized for threatening economic stability after she was forced to scrap her tax-cutting plans and embark on a programme of eye-watering public spending cuts instead.

After weeks of blaming the markets and global headwinds for investors dumping the pound and government bonds, Truss said she was sorry for going "too far and too fast" with her radical economic plan to snap Britain out of years of stagnant growth. wsj

UK orders Meta to sell Giphy after failed appeal

London: A British competition regulator on Tuesday ordered Facebook-owner Meta to sell animated graphics start-up Giphy in a final decision after a failed appeal by the US tech giant.

The Competition and Markets Authority said in a statement that Giphy must be "sold off as its entirety", after ruling last year that the acquisition would hit competition and advertising. wsj

The countdown for FIFA World Cup 2022 in Qatar, which will kick off on November 20, has begun. While fans in football-crazy Kerala are excited, the tournament has triggered concern in the hospitality sector in God's Own Country, as there has been an exodus of workers from Kerala's hotels to Qatar on temporary contracts, leaving them short-staffed.

"Every hotel in Kerala is down with 40 per cent of the staff because of manpower hiring by the hospitality industry in Qatar," said Navneet Dugar, Operations Manager, GoStayard by Marriott near Cochin Airport.

"We are experiencing staff crunch, especially in Food safety authority tightens labelling norms for breads

FOOD FOR THOUGHT. FSSAI's regulations will enable consumers to make better choices

Meenakshi Verma Ambawani
New Delhi

The Food Safety and Standards Authority (FSSAI) is tightening the labelling norms for bread at a time when a wide number of varieties with health claims are available on retail shelves.

From May next year, bakers will need to ensure that a product labelled as whole wheat bread is made of at least 75 per cent whole wheat flour and bread comprising at least 50 per cent whole wheat flour.

Similarly, companies and bakers will need to ensure that the flour used to make multi-grain bread consists of certain minimum amount of grains other than wheat.

The minimum amount of specialty ingredient (grains other than wheat)

ON THE MENU. Norms have also been notified for garlic bread, honey bread, millet bread, cheese bread, among others.

will need to be at least 15 per cent of total protein content in the flour (100 gms basis).

Harsh Gursahani, a food lawyer and partner at PLR Chambers, said: "Various companies and bakers choose to market their breads using the name of specific ingredients on the front of the label. The regulations will bring in more clarity for the industry as well as consumers."

Companies that were mislabelling their products will need to either modify their labels or their products to be able to adhere to these regulations. This will enable consumers to make better choices," he added.

Labels. The regulations make it mandatory for them to meet the basic thresholds of such ingredients in consumer interest. For example, fruit bread must have minimum 10 per cent candied fruit content, and milk bread must have 6 per cent milk."

Norms have been notified for garlic bread, honey bread, millet bread, cheese bread, raisin bread, rye bread, and bran bread, among others. These standards are part of the Food Safety and Standards (Labelling and Display) Second Amendment Regulations, 2022.

Ashwin Bhadri, CEO, Equinox Labs, said the regulations will bring in more clarity for the industry as well as consumers. "Companies that were mislabelling their products will need to either modify their labels or their products to be able to adhere to these regulations. This will enable consumers to make better choices," he added.

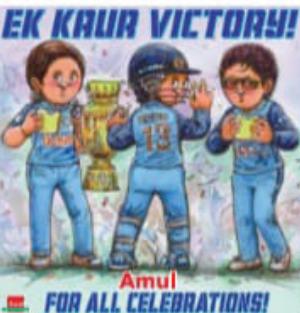

Festival gold sales may lose glitter this year

Bloomberg
Mumbai

India's gold sales during the festival period may shine less brightly after a massive jump in 2021, and customers won't be rushing to stores this time around, according to the World Gold Council.

Demand for gold jewellery, coins and bars peaked in the world's second-biggest consumer over October to December, driven by festivals, including Diwali, which starts next week and the start of writings that follow.

Indians bought a record 314 tonnes of gold over the period, and while they failed to match that year, said Piti Somasundaram, regional chief executive officer at the London-based organization. "We will definitely see a certain demand than the first half of the year, but it is not going to be as good as it was last year," he said. "Inflation is a little high, but it is not perceived as something of a crisis here. So, therefore, gold is just seeing a seasonal uptick and there is no crisis push towards gold at this moment in time."

Nations with high disease burden must develop gene therapy: WEF

Our Bureau
Mumbai

Gene therapy can transform lives, but countries with a high burden of disease should play a role in developing these advanced healthcare technologies, said the World Economic Forum (WEF).

In fact, through the analysis of the experiences of five low- and middle-income countries (LMICs), including India, the WEF white paper outlines areas for countries to build on while designing their own research to gene therapy applications.

Although disease burdens fall disproportionately on LMICs, the majority of gene therapy research and development and clinical setting has remained restricted to high-income countries, primarily the US and those in the EU, the paper noted.

highest disease burdens," said Shyam Bishen, WEF's Head of Health and Healthcare.

Researchers have been applying gene therapies to multiple disease areas and infections, such as sickle cell disease and HIV.

By making precise changes to the human genome, these sophisticated technologies could potentially lead to one-time, life-long cures for dozens of diseases over the next six months.

What's particularly appealing, points out Bishen, is that the situation has come at a time when Kerala has started receiving guests with the opening up of economic activities and resumption of flights after the pandemic.

However, a veteran in the industry voiced concerns that the majority are on tourist visas and not employment visas. There are possibilities of getting cheated by holding their passports and not offering the assured wages, he said.

To develop, test and administer gene therapies, health systems must be equipped with advanced manufacturing, sophisticated hospital equipment, specially trained personnel and mature regulatory environments — a capacity that is largely lacking or absent in most LMICs — the paper said. The WEF note also pointed to the exorbitant costs of some treatments.

Kerala hotels fouled by talent exodus kicked off by World Cup

Many chefs, front-office and housekeeping personnel have left for Qatar, lured by generous pay packets

ROOM FOR ALL. Doha is readying lodging options, including cruise ships, private villas and serviced apartments food & beverages, front-of-fice and housekeeping."

Around 1.5 million fans are expected to visit Qatar for the World Cup, and several global chains have invested in new hotels that are reeling, including a couple are slated to open just before the event.

Qatar has been talking about making 30,000 hotel rooms available. In addition, a host of lodging options are being reeled, including a couple of cruise ships with about 4,000 cabins, tented accommodation, private villas and service apartments, all of which require manpower.

FEEDER MARKET

While recruiters are hiring from everywhere, Kerala is particularly hit as it is a major feeder market for manpower to the West Asian market. And frenzied recruitment is happening through word of mouth channels in the state, where a large Malayali expatriate community resides.

Pradeep Jose, Honorary Secretary of Kerala Travel Mart Society, said poaching for lucrative jobs in Qatar started three months ago, with a surging demand for chefs, staff in front office and housekeeping, with generous pay packets.

"Due to this, many hotels in the city are facing staff shortage. However, the sector is coping with available staff on the assumption that there will be a reverse trend once the event is over," he said. Dugar, too, said those who have gone are on temporary contracts for six months.

What's particularly appealing, points out Bishen, is that the situation has come at a time when Kerala has started receiving guests with the opening up of economic activities and resumption of flights after the pandemic.

However, a veteran in the industry voiced concerns that the majority are on tourist visas and not employment visas. There are possibilities of getting cheated by holding their passports and not offering the assured wages, he said.
